Russia To Enter War Against Japan

American Army Journal's Revelation

STALIN'S COMMUNIQUE READ OUT TO SOVIET SOLDIERS IN GERMANY

(From Our Correspondent)
LONDON, May 15.

Russia will fight Japan.

What was once a possibility becomes a certainty with the publication of the sensational story in the American Army newspaper "Stars and Stripes".

STALIN'S COMMUNIQUE

Its correspondent met Russian troops and discovered the real feeling of the Russians. Thus far M. Stalin's carefully guarded statements have been the only inkling of the Soviet attitude toward the Far East war. Now here is the opinion of Soviet soldiers who will put in action what M. Stalin has only hinted.

The correspondent states: "Without exception everyone I questioned during my four-day stay with the Russians said he was expected to fight the Japs.

"The day after the Ninth Army linked up with the Russians, the Soviet interpreter read a Special Communique from M. Stalin quoting M. Stalin as saying that only one more fighting Fascist nation was left —Japan.

The surprised and happy Americans were joined by the Red Army men in the enthusiastic toast by these words. American officers and soldiers looked each other meaningly as the Russians nodded in pointed agreement. A Soviet artillery major said: "Our people could not rest peacefully with the knowledge that Jap Fascism still existed". A private from the Ukraine said: "Japan is just as Fascist as Germany." A captain from Leningrad said: "M. Stalin will tell us when the time comes" their sentiment is universal that the Russian will fight Japan—as soon as M. Stalin sees fit.

MANDATES HURDLE FOR 'FRISCO

Cranborne Opposes U. S. A. Proposals

SAN FRANCISCO, May 15 (Reuter): Lord Cranborne, who represents Britain on the Trusteeship Committee of the Conference, opposed the United State's proposal here for opening certain mandated colonial territories to general world exploitation through lowering of tariffs, cables Reuter's special correspondent.

"Our experience, as a result of 25 years of administration of these territories, is that non-discriminatory provisions do not operate in the interest of the inhabitants", he said "If I were to get up and ask the delegates of 49 nations that they should repeal all legislation either against goods or materials of other countries, I feel confident that there would not be single member present who would not immediately rise to his feet and protest that such a step would be fraught with grave dangers to the interests off his fellow countrymen."

S. AFRICA WANTS NO CHANGE IN MANDATES

South Africa is taking a strong line against the combined proposals of the United States, China, Russia and France to alter the existing form of administration in mandated territories, cables Ruter's special correspondent.

Mr. D. L. Smit of South Africa speaking at today's session of the technical committee on the Trusteeship question, said, it should be borne in mind—as was recognised when the mandates were issued—that populations and etrritories and forms of Government differed so widely that there could be no hard and fast rule and that the terms of each agreement must be judged by the circumstances of each case.

Referring to the special case of South-West Africa, he pointed out that it had been administered as an integral part of the Union.

Fromu time to time the union had advanced large sums of money to enable the administration of South-West Africa to enable the administance its budget.

If these services were withdrawn, South-West Africa could not carry on as a separate entity.

Any proposal, therefore, to alter the terms of the mandate without South Africa agreement would be regarded as a breach of faith and would lead to a state of political uncertainty that would unsettle the people and be detrimental to South African administration.

Mr. Smit also submitted that the Chinese suggestion that a mandated territory should in certain cases be directly administered by an international organisation through an agency of its own, would lead to confusion and would not be in the best interest of sound administration.

CHURCHILL ON HITLER'S DEATH

Reply To Questions In House Of Commons

LONDON, May 15 (Reuter): Mr. Churchill in rejecting a suggestion that formal victory parades and celebrations should be held before the end of the Japanese war, told the Commons today: "Our brief rejoicings and celebrations are over and we must now turn again to difficult and unpleasant tasks, including the defeat of Japan."

When Mr. Thorne (Labour) asked if it were not possible that the surrender of Japan would be celebrated between now and Christmas, Mr. Churchill evaded a direct answer with "We will all do justice to them"—the celebrations.

BIG THREE MEETING.

To an enquiry whether a conference between himself, President Truman and Marshal Stalin was contemplated in the near future Mr. Churchill said: "I devoutly hope so. It would be very odd" he added amid laughter, "if such a long and fierce war ended without any settlement even among the victors".

Mr. Churchill was next asked if the Government was satisfied beyond all shadow of doubt that Hitler was dead. Mr. Churchill said he knew no more than what he had read in the papers, and, therefore, only had his own opinion to go by.

When members asked what his opinion was Mr. Churchill replied amid loud laughter: "I must say I incline to the general opinion."

There was more amusement when in reply to Mr. Locker Lampson (Conservative), who asked if it was a fact that Hitler was being harboured by Mr. De Valera at the moment, Mr. Churchill declared: "I will have inquiries made".

SMALL NATIONS STILL DISTRUSTFUL OF BIG POWERS

'Frisco Talks Carried On In Atmosphere Of Scepticism And Cynicism

(From S. A. SABAVALA, Chronicle" Special Representative)

SAN FRANCISCO, May 12: Winston Churchill delivered a sharp rebuke to those totalitarian powers who might wish to replace Nazism in Europe with police Governments.

This comes as climax to a week of rising agitation against the foreign policy of Soviet Russia. Its climax is Mr. Eden's remarks about the Polish arrests and the demands of many European communities now policed by Russia of which U.N.C.I.O. must now take heed.

The international situation which thus deteriorates is fraught with danger. Hardly has Hitler been laid in his grave when all kinds of ugly things creep up to shatter the war time alliance of the United Nations and make possible a world war III.

In this atmosphere 49 nations' struggle at San Francisco to build a new world order the mechanism of the conference remains delicate and all these storms on the outside must and are interfering with its equilibrium. U.N.C.I.O. is three weeks old and as yet very little has been achieved. The two outstanding questions of trusteeship and regional organisation remain unresolved. The preamble as framed by Field-Marshal Smuts calls for equality of nations but that equality is nowhere in sight.

The small nations are still distrustful of the big nations and continue to saruggle in spite of rebuffs for the limitation of the sponsoring powers' veto. Poland still remains on the outside while Fascist Argentina is in.

The role of enmey powers in this organisation has yet to be determined. No one ever mentions Italy and finally no guarantee against British or any other kind of imperialism has been given or devised.

The commissions and the committees are working feverishly on the amendments and on many other technical questions but the very purpose of this meeting is to be unduly pessimistic.

I am beginning to doubt whether the world is ready for an international organisation to guarantee its place. The way many nations are behaving here strengthens my doubt that nationalism remains enthroned and so far the delegates without surrendering any particle of the sovereignty of their nations to the organisation are inclined to strengthen it whenever possible.

I am beginning to realise what the conference at Versailles must have been like as also the innumerable difficulties which defeated the objects of the League of Nations This war was supposed to be a cleansing purging fire through which the nations of the world would emerge with new ideas and purposes. Instead we have the same old problems only more of them.

The end of Nazism and Fascism has by no means ended hte craving to dominate. Economic chaos remains with us and social injustices are a byword of international law.

Mr. Fraser the New Zealand Premier has just announced that the discussion on trusteeships has reached a satisfactory stage and that in the immediate future a working draft would be prepared that could be incorporated in the charter. He gave us to understand that the Trusteeship Council a part of the International Organisation that will replace the League of Nations will decide the fate of all mandated territories of all those areas now wrested from the enemy or still in his possession which come under this category and of all colonial areas at present administered by foreign powers. As I see it this means that India can put her case before this council as soon as it is ready to operate.

He admitted that the question of who or when it was to be decided whether these territories could become self governing had not come up but it was definitely coming up before the committee.

The Soviet delegation has put in an amendment to the effect that an organisation be set up to deal with the question of all dependent peoples and expedite their way to sovereignty If this amendment is adopted it is still not clear whether the Trusteeship Council will represent such an organisation or whether separate machinery will be set up.

As far as U.N.C.I.O. is concerned the job is to constitute a Trusteeship Council which will guarantee satisfaction to all as far as such a thing is possible. The powers most closely concerned are Great Britain the U.S. France and the Netherlands. The Soviets are also taking a deep interest and should be able to maintain an equitable balance against the imperialist powers.

Meanwhile whatever hope of success U.N.C.I.O. has rests on an immediate meeting of the 'Big Three'. President Roosevelt will be sorely missed but the getting together is inevitable and necessary. Not only have several deep rifts between the sponsoring powers got to be reconciled but U.N.C.I.O. needs their uncompromising individual support. An unequivocal and sincere declaration may even at this stage of the game remove a few of the deep rooted suspicions and allay the general mistrust.

It is impossible however to be too sanguine. There is an atmosphere of scepticism and cynicism about this conference which is hard to combat and even harder to understand.

"We Have Not Heard Last Of Hitler Yet"

Surprising Revelations In Store For Judgment Day

From D. F. Karaka "Chronicle" War Correspondent

S.H.A.E.F., May 14.

Mystery still surrounds Hitler's supposed death. The general feeling was best expressed by an American Senator who recently said: "I'd kinda like to see body".

There are several theories. Doenitz claimed that Hitler died fighting at the command post. Goering said the other day that Hitler must have died before. Accordng to Himmler, Hitler was suffering from cerebral thrombosis. One Russian report stated that Hitler's body was found bullet-riddled. Some Nazis feel that Hitler is still not dead. Therefore, there is a wide range of possibilities from which it is difficult to choose. My personal feeling is that if Hitler is dead, either he was shot by his own people who felt that he was unnecessarily prolonging the war or that loyal Nazis, fearing he would fall in the Allied hands shot him and turned his body into ashes, thereby perpetuating the Hitler legend. The fact that no trace of his body has yet been found would encourage the latter theory. Alternately, if Hitler is not dead, then it is likely that he has escaped to the last Axis country, which is not impossible. With the knowledge Hitler possessed of secret weapons, it is possible that the Japanese would welcome him, to enlist his aid for their war effort. If the Allies gave shelter to foreign kings during the German occupation, it is equally possible that Japan would be offering shelter to Hitler.

One other theory is that Hitler with the help of modern surgery would have transformed his face. Nothing appears too fantastic to one who knows the Nazi mind.

All this is speculation. In the realm of reality, some facts have emerged, since the Allies overran Germany and took Hitler's various 'hide-outs'. Eye-witness accounts of his homes are in striking contrast with the Nazi propaganda which built up Hitler as an ascetic. While posing as a man of simple habits who would not touch wine, women or smoke, Hitler's residences appear as ideal for orgies, which seem to be the keynote of Nazi regime. His famous eagle's nest, where it was said that he communed with nature and God, was a most sumptuous affair with a large banqueting room seating 30 and most elaborate decoration, though it was admitted to be in best taste.

It is amazing how this modern stone building was built on a site which is almost a pin-point mountain top. It is the modern equivalent of the pyramids built by slave labour It probably gratified Hitler's superrace vanity. It is about 7,000 feet above sea level and most difficult to approach. It was guarded heavily by storm troops. Only a very few select people are said to have been there. Here Hitler without doubt indulged in an orgy far away from the reach of the eyes of the German people who always believed Hitler to be a good man.

WOMEN IN HIS LIFE.

In spite of general rumours that Hitler never liked women, it is now confirmed that Hitler had great attachment to Eva Braun who always appeared round him. Her house was always next to the Fuehrer complete with all evidence such as her books and personal articles bearing her name. Eva Braun, likewise, also disappeared. It is said she once was secretary to Hitler's photographer. Later she caught Hitler's fancy and stayed loyally close to him. That things belonging to Hitler have been found in her house proves that she was closely attached to him till the end. But none knows the precise nature of their relationship for. the best medical opinion in Germany was certain that Hitler was sexually impotent. Perhaps it flattered his vanity that he be seen with a woman who was attractive. Perhaps Eva Braun gave him some perverted satisfaction.

HITLER A PERVERT.

Everything now being discovered regarding Hitler's private life strongly indicates that Hitler was a pervert of some sort. His furniture in his personal bedroom is like that of a woman. His tastes were feminine. Bedsheets and silk covers on his beds were coloured light pink, hardly suitable to a man. A picture of him seen dancing after the fall of Paris show him clearly making gestures of a woman. Those who knew him tell how when he fumed, he acted like an enraged hysterical woman rather than a strong man. His house in Munich and the chalet at Berchtesgaden are likewise beautiful but feminine.

His cellars were full of the best wines stolen from all over Europe—champagnes, cognacs and everything conceivable and in largest possible quantities. It is only reasonable to presume that a man who had all this while conducting the world war was no ascetic. Hitler was a fraud in every sense of the word. He used good motives and appealed to the best in men for ends which were basest. That was the secret of his success. He was a maniac, of which there is now no question. He became the embodiment of the Nazi power, and against him others could do but little. Almost all Nazis today explain the atrocities by saying that they were ordered by Hitler. It is gradually being made clear to impartial observers that Hitler was the greatest fraud perpetrated on the German people. He was not a good man. He was not in fact the same he pretended to be. He had only one ambition—personal power. To this, he was willing to sacrifice anything That was the only consistent thing about him. These are facts gradually appearing on the surface, as the Allies dig into the rubble which is Hitler's Germany. As many are afraid of facing the Judgment Day which is now fast approaching, they are willing to talk of the regime in which they thrived. Before long, the world will hear of much that will appear to be surprising revelations. We have not heard the last of Hitler yet.

Britain Still In Power To Draw India And Burma Together

"Times" Fears That Friction Between Two Countries May Adversely Affect Future Relations

LONDON, May 15 (Reuter).—Friction between India and Burma, which may adversely affect the future relations of the two countries, is the subject of a leader in the "Times" this morning.

"So long as Britain exercises a broad political control over both countries, bad feeling between them, regrettable though it is, will be confined within certain bounds", writes the paper.

"But with the emergence of autonomous India and self-governing Burma, the present tension would be disastrous, not only to their own real interests but to the success of any plan for regional security of South East Asia, which may form part of the general international order.

Economically, India is Burma's best customer and Burma is one of India's most profitable markets. Burma needs Indian help in rebuilding her war shattered economy and India has large interests in Burma which call for fair treatment.

Strategically, the case is even clearer. Burma is the eastern bastion of India and, as war has shown, if that bastion is lost India can be invaded.

On the other hand Burma is not herself defensible without the butters of India's military and economic strength. Together the two countries from the indispensable nucleus of any practical plan for regional security of South East Asia, but the nucleus must not be split by antagonism between its components or disaster to both may follow.

Fortunately, it is still within the power of Britain to draw them together. If the Burmese are convinced of her desire to encourage them in shaping their economic as well as their political future their reliance upon her aid during the period of reconstruction will enable her to enlist India as a partner in the work of creating a sound economy for Burma.

Appeals to Indian generosity in this matter will not fall on deaf ears for India can sympathize with Burmese dislike of an economy which is virtually foreign-controlled. There must be fair treatment of Indian interests and reasonable compensation when these interests are judged incompatible with the new order of things but if British mediation is wisely directed grievances felt on the Burmese will give way to friendlier feeling.

Excessive Zeal Will Be Curbed

Amery On War Savings Campaign In India

LONDON, May 11. (U.P.A.): Replying to a question asked in the Commons by Mr. Sorensen regarding the use of undue pressure in the War Savings Campaign in India, Mr. Amery in a written statement said that the gravamen of the charge was the use of pressure by subordinate officials in order to secure subscriptions, particularly in Bihar, the "United Press of America" learned.

According to Mr. Amery, representatives of the Government of India had made it clear that they would themselves have preferred to organize collections by means of agents especially appointed for the purpose, rather than through the channel of Provincial Governments' administrations, but had not succeeded in persuading Provincial Governments generally that this would be wise.

It was also made clear in Mr. Amery's reply that existing instructions given by the Government of India lend no countenance whatever to the use of improper methods.

Indeed, even on the narrowest grounds of expediency, they would not favour them, because their use merely tends to spoil the good effects of the Small Savings Campaign generally, it was said.

The campaign as a whole, however, undoubtedly is vital if the stability of Indian economy is to be protected and if widespread sufferings, which an inflationary outburst would involve, are to be avoided.

Mr. Amery is reported to have no doubt that the Government of India are right in this view and that whilst improper methods must undoubtedly be eschewed, proper methods must be fostered to stimulate savings.

The United Press of America understands that the Government of India are taking action, firstly, to investigate, in consultation with the Provincial Governments concerned, specific cases which are brought under notice and, secondly, to induce Provincial Governments to issue such instructions as will curb any display of excessive zeal.

It is understood that Mr. Amery assured Mr. Sorensen that there is no doubt the Government of India are fully alive to the problem and doing what they can to deal with it.

PARIS, May 14.

The results of the second ballot in the French Municipal elections generally confirm the success of anti-Fascist and resistance lists. A swing to the left is as sharply accentuated as on April 29.

Another characteristic of the ballot is that all candidates suspected of having supported Marshal Petain were defeated with rare exceptions, such as Senator Millies Lacroix in Landes Department (S.W. France).

Payment of the special allowance to secretaries of village panchayats while they are under training will be continued during 1945-46, under an order issued by the Government of Bombay.

500 PLANE RAID ON NAGOYA

Heaview Bombing In Store For Tokyo

LONDON, May 15 (Reuter): After fierce hand to hand fighting a determined Japanese counter-attack was repulsed in Okinawa. Off Okinawa Japanese aircraft damaged two light aircraft. An announcement from Pacific fleet Headquarters reported that planes from British aircraft carrier bombed airfields on Mikayas Island in the Sakishima group over the week end, hitting building and dumps and starting a large oil fire and destroying two Japanese planes on the ground.

The Sakishima group lies to the south of Okinawa. When Japanese aircraft attacked a fast United States carrier task force yesterday morning they caused some damage to one major unit, but lost 21 planes.

In the Philippines the Americans gained an important success with the capture of Balete pass—the only road entrance to the Cagayan valley in north-eastern Luzon. Its capture was the culmination of many weeks of fighting. The pass is only 75 miles wide and the Japanese were hidden in scores of caves and equipped with artillery, machine-gun and small arms.

On Mindalao very heavy fighting continues in the Davao sector, with the Americans making some gains.

In Borneo, the Australians now control nearly all the usable parts of the island including Tarakan, and towns, roads and oilfields, with the Japanese only retaining a grip on the central hilly areas.

JAPAN WILL GET HEAVIER BOMBING

From the United States to-day came two revealing statements on the air and sea war in the Pacific. Speaking in New York, Brigadier-General Haywood Hansel, who was commanding the 21st bomber command on Saipan when the first super-fortress raid was made on Tokyo said "Japan will get heavier bombing than Germany received and is less capable of standing it."

Referring to the latest 500 plane raid on Nagoya, he said "The fight will continue to swtil. It should be remembered that since Japan is isolated and without friendly neighbours she is gone for good, once her heavy industries are gone".

In Washington, United States Navy Commander-in-Chief Admiral Ernest King told the Senate Appropriations Committee that Japan had some 20 largest destroyers left and not all those were in operation.

Her aircraft strength he estimated at 4,000.

Dr. V. P. Nair Killed In Motor Accident

MARGHERITA (ASSAM), May 14 (A.P.): Information has been received here that Dr. V. P. Nair, Principal Medical Officer of the Burma Refugee Organisation, was knocked down by a motor vehicle near the refugee camp at Lekhapani on May 6 and died a few hours after admission into hospital.—

Japanese Launch Flying Bombs

GUAM, May 14.

A United States flier reported to-day that he had observed over one target area the appearance of Japanese flying bombs similar to those used by the Germans

The craft were 12 to 15 feet in length with wings and tail but no propeller, he said, and there were no pilots in them.

Chinese Big Push In Offing

CHUGKING, May 14 (Reuter): The entry of Chinese troops into the port of Foochow in the Fukien Province opposite Japanese-held Formosa is believed in some Chinese quarters to be the prelude to further actions aimed at securing Amoy Swatow and other ports suitable for Allied landings, cables Graham Barrow, Reuter's special correspondent.

The Chinese press gave wide publicity to the Foochow story today and there is a distinct feeling in the air that big things will happen in this theatre of the war in the neat future.

Elephants For 'V-Day'

TRIVANDRUM, May 15: Caparisoned tuskers, bearing the British, American, Russian and Travancore flags, headed an impressive victory day procession in the city on Monday, marking the conclusion of victory week in the state.

WASHINGTON, May 14 (Reuter): Mr. Joseph Grew, United States Acting Secretary of State, said to-night that he expected that substantial reductions would be made in the current lend-lease programme for the Soviet Union.

PEACE IMPOSSIBLE WITHOUT FREE INDIA

Victory Day Meeting Appeals To Workers In Britain To Help Struggle For Independence

BOMBAY, Tuesday.

That world security and peace is impossible without first having a Free India among the comity of nations is the specific suggestion which was put forward by the Communist Party in an elaborate resolution unanimously passed at a largely attended meeting at the Kamgar Maidan last evening.

The meeting which was held in observance of the Victory Day was presided over by Mr. S. S. Mirajkar and was addressed by Messrs. B. T. Ranadive, Bhogle and Julmiram Choudhury.

All speakers emphasised the need for freedom to India which all held as the pre-condition for reshaping the world into a happy abode of prosperous and peaceful humanity.

They maintained that all the sufferings and sacrifices undergone by the world would be meaningless unless the people everywhere combined together in securing freedom for all enslaved countries like India.

The meeting passed a resolution expressing:—

This meeting expresses its sense of deep rejoicing at the complete defeat of Nazi Germany and her Allies and the victorious conclusion of the European War and its warm greeting to the Red Army and the people of the Soviet Union, the working class and people of Britain and America and liberated countries who all fought heroically for the common cause of world freedom.

It further declared that the sufferings and the sacrifices undergone by the people in the last six years would be meaingless unless the working class and the progressive forces combine to secure freedom for oppressed and enslaved countries like India, and built the world order based on the equality and sovereignty of nations. It particularly appealed to the great labour movement of Great Britain to defeat the reactionary policy pursued by the Churchill Government in India and compel it to release the National leaders and establish a National Government.

It declared that there could be no world security without a Free India. Indian freedom will finally destroy imperialism and remove all causes of war.

A THOUGHT FOR THE DAY

Liberty is to the collective body what health is to every individual body. Without health no pleasure can be tasted by man; without liberty no happiness can be enjoyed by society.

—Lord Bolingbroke.

The Bombay Chronicle

A VICTOR'S SPEECH

The last time previous to Sunday that Mr. Churchill had referred to Anglo-Irish relations he had spoken of the necessity of both sides searching their hearts and had unmistakably implied that the tragedy of Anglo-Irish differences and antagonism manifesting itself in Eire's neutrality was due to faults on both sides. In his Sunday broadcast, a few days after complete victory over the Germans, the British Prime Minister scathingly denounced Mr. de Valera for his neutrality characterising it as a "shame" and as something which tended justifiably to produce hatred by Britain for the Irish race, which, however, he magnanimously destroyed in his heart. The post-war change in Mr. Churchill's mentality and attitude is significant.

Of particular interest to us in this country is the complete omission of India in his thirty-minute oration, which, incidentally, All-India Radio bestowed upon itself and its listeners the honour of re-broadcasting twice on Monday. He referred to the part played by British and Empire troops in Europe on the Western and Italian fronts, he referred to the various Dominions specifically in connection with the Japanese danger. But not once did the British Prime Minister articulate the words "India" or "Indian" during his address. But there was a reason. Mr. Churchill had divided as, usual, the so-called British family of nations into the Commonwealth and the Empire—"Our Empire" he described it in a glow of patriotic British possession. And India was just a part of "Our Empire". The proprietorially Imperialistic attitude of mind is another and a more significant factor in Mr. Churchill's post-war manifestation. So far, however, as India is concerned, Mr. Churchill has only confirmed and justified this country's suspicions and its refusal to be deluded. But Mr. Churchill's omissions and commissions must be noted with care and interest not only because he has been Britain's Prime Minister during five years of war but also because he desires to hold on to that post in the future too.

His British audience must have listened to him with keen interest because he was expected to give a hint regarding the dissolution of Parliament and the General Election. They did not get it. But they got something equally important. The task which Mr. Winston Churchill undertook five years ago is still unfinished. Therefore, he desires, modestly and indirectly but quite plainly, to remain Prime Minister for some time longer, which, in the event of a General Election he can only do as the head of the Conservative Party rather than a coalition. It was an electioneering speech and delivered as a Tory leader, for the remarkable thing about it was that Mr. Winston Churchill talked all the time of himself and never once referred to his Labour Colleagues or the contribution they made to the successful prosecution of the war. So much for the domestic and Imperial aspects of Mr. Churchill's broadcast.

From the point of view of the immediate and urgent problems of post-war Europe and Big Three alliance, the following sentence in Mr. Churchill's address has already provoked interest: "There would be little use in punishing the Hitlerites for their crimes if law and justice did not rule and if totalitarian or police Governments were to take the place of the German invaders." This is obviously directed at Russia and Soviet dominated Poland, Hungary, Rumania and Bulgaria if not also Yugo-Slavia and Austria. The rights and wrongs of Mr. Churchill's criticism are not so important as the fact that it indicates further deterioration in the relations of the Big Three. Many a new problem has cropped up during the last few weeks in Europe and in San Francisco. And not one has been settled. Indeed there is an unmistakable trend towards further difficulties and sharpening of antagonisms. Within a week of victory over Germany a situation has developed which threatens the whole future of European and world peace. Never was a Big Three meeting, inspired with a sense of supreme statesmanship, more necessary.

Frankly Speaking

Another Missed Opportunity

If the Government of India cared for justice or had any statesmanship it could not have better celebrated the victory in Europe than by releasing political prisoners, at least those who have been imprisoned without any trial. But not only are they not released but some of them are now said to be receiving worse treatment than they did before. Dr. Choitram Gidwani, President of the Sind Provincial Congress Committee, says that although the Government of Sind claims to have placed Acharya Kirpalani in a special class he is not receiving the same facilities as he was given in Ahmednagar. And as a protest against this treatment Mr. Kirpalani is said to have refused to have interviews and receive his post and newspapers. Indian people are naturally feeling that there can be no jubilation for them when their leaders are still in jail.

A Sad Case

As a result of prolonged detention a number of persons have suffered terribly, financially and otherwise. A correspondent cites the instance of Mr. Marularadhya Shastri, who was detained in December 1942. Months before his arrest he had resigned his post as President of the Bijapur District Congress Committee and had practically retired from Congress work owing to domestic difficulties. And because of these difficulties he had declined to take any part in the individual Satyagraha movement. When he represented to Government that he was absolutely innocent, he was offered release on the condition that he should quit the Bombay Presidency within forty-eight hours of his release. This was an unreasonable condition as its acceptance would have caused him much hardship, besides damaging his reputation. If there were grounds for suspicion against him, he could be a source of danger even outside the province. He rightly rejected the offer, meant probably to humiliate him. This case is only typical. There are many still in jail who, as Congressmen or sympathisers, had dedicated themselves wholly to constructive work. That work has been ruined and their families are in severe distress. What a back-ground for victory celebrations in India!

Important Victory

The capture of Foochow by the Chinese may, if the Japs do not react immediately, turn out to be the greatest victory yet won by Marshal Chiang-Kai-Shek's forces. Foochow is a seaport, which has been held by the Japs for four years and, facing Formosa, it is likely to be one of the landing points for American amphibious forces. Meanwhile, it cuts the Japanese occupied East Asiatic mainland into two, isolating the Japs in Indo-China, Siam and Malaya from those in China. Can the Japanese allow such severance, which further dooms their forces in South-East Asia and which will, in due course, provide the one thing which Americans need for an amphibious invasion of China? If they do, it will mean that even in the Chinese theatre they have lost their military strength, and it will, therefore, mean that the end of the Japs is much nearer than anticipated. The next few days must be interesting.

Apprentice Scheme

The Director of Industries, Bombay, has invited applications from candidates for admission to the Apprentice Scheme under which a number of industrial establishments in Bombay and Ahmedabad accept as apprentices boys whose education has progressed up to the Seventh English Standard for a period of three to five years and who, while working in the establishments, also attend technical classes in the evening. This is a useful scheme and has worked fairly well for about seven years. But considering the intelligent factory work, received from the whole-time apprentices of nearly the Matriculation standard, who soon learn both the theory and practice of the work assigned to them, their initial salary of about Rs. 15 is miserably low. Without a higher initial salary and a fair graduated periodical increase, the scheme cannot be so popular as it deserves to be

KASTURBA VILLAGE WORKERS

Medical Board Drafts Courses

BOMBAY, May 15 (A.P.I.): The second meeting of the Advisory Medical Board of the Kasturba Gandhi National Memorial Trust was held in Bombay on May 13. Dr. Jivraj Mehta, the Chairman of the Board, presided.

The Board adopted courses of study for "First Aid and Home Nursing" and those for "Child Welfare" training prepared by the respective sub-committees of the Board. Each course is to be of three months' duration.

The report of the sub-committee embodying syllabus for "Village nurses" extending over two years, was also accepted. The Board approved further the courses of study for "Village Health Visitors" and those for "village sanitary inspectors."

The report of the sub-committee for "Village Sanitation" was also adopted and Dr. B. C. Gupta was requested to prepare a short note in connection with the training of existing village welfare workers in village sanitation. To popularise village sanitation work the Board recommended that a Sanitary Inspector and a Health Visitor should be trained for each group of village. The persons trained would, in their turn, train up other villagers and organise and supervise village sanitation work in the area allotted to them.

To put into effect the various suggestions put up by the Board at this and the previous meetings with regard to village medical relief and village sanitation, the Board hoped that the Executive Committee of the Trust as well as the Provincial Committees of the Trust would select large numbers of suitable and physically fit village girls and give them general education in order to prepare them for training in the various courses recommended by the Board. The Board further hoped that the Executive Committee of the Trust would prepare a list of institutions willing to train village midwives and village nurses etc.

The Board also considered some questions of general importance regarding the medical institutions to be started by or through the auspices of the Trust.

To ensure the stability of these institutions, the Board recommended to the chairman of the Trust that at least half the capital and maintenance charges should be raised locally right from the beginning and that financial assistance for maintenance, if any is to be given, should not be given from the Central Fund unless it be for a period of three years or for five years at most, except under special circumstances.

The Board also recommended that to ensure help for the maintenance of medical institutions started under the Kasturba Gandhi National Memorial Trust, some payment should be received from patients attending them. The payment could be made in cash or kind.

I.): A resolution demanding unconditional release of Congress leaders and workers and lifting the ban on the Indian National Congress and that on the National flag was passed at the Bihar Provincial Kisan Conference held at Warisaliganj, Gaya, under the presidentship of Swami Sahajanand Saraswati.

Other resolutions adopted by the Conference included those expressing sympathy with the condemned Ashti and Chimur prisoners and approving the action of the Provincial Kisan Sabha in expelling the Communists from the organisation. About 50,000 Kisans including not less than 1,000 women attended the session. The next session has been invited to Hazaribag.

M.L.A. Jailed For One Year

PATNA, May 15 (U. P. He was directed to report himself to the police station once a fortnight but he did not obey the direction.

While the trial was going on, the Government rescinded the order but the accused was sentenced for the offence already committed.

"GLORIOUS INSTITUTION OF BRITISH MONARCHY"

Churchill's Glowing Tributes To King And Queen

LONDON, May 15. (Reuter): Mr. Churchill to-day paid a warm tribute to the King and Queen and "the glorious institution of British Monarchy".

Moving an address in the House of Commons to the King, expressing the congratulations of Parliament on the achievement of victory, and gratitude to the fighting services and all classes of the nation for the endeavours that made victory possible, Mr. Churchill said: "The King is the Commander of all our armed forces and is the symbol of the whole war effort of the British nations in the innumerable forms in which it has been manifested by all his subjects in their various posts and stations, according to their strength or opportunity.

"The King is also, since the Statute of Westminster, in a very special sense, the constitutional link that joins us to the self-governing Dominions. He embodies a multiple kingship unique in the world of to-day and as far as I know, in the history of the past.

"Of this multiple kingship, we in these islands, the mother country, are but a single member, namely the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Northern Ireland. But it is the kingship to which all other governments of the Empire feel equal allegiance and equal right; governments so proud and independent, that they would not brook the slightest sign of interference from this House, vie with each other and with us in their respect for the ancient and glorious institution of British Monarchy.

LOYALTY OF THE COMMONWEALTH.

"It is the golden circle of the crown which alone embraces the loyalties of so many states and races all over the world. It is the symbol which gathers together and expresses those deep emotions and stirrings of the human heart which make men travel far to fight and die together, and cheerfully abandon material possessions and enjoyment for the sake of abstract ideas.

"Woeful would it be in this modern age were such forces to be used in a wrongful cause of greedy aggression, in lust for acquisition or in vain conceit of earthly grandeur.

"Glorious is it when all mysterious powers of the British Commonwealth and Empire come together by a spontaneous impulse to face immeasured and immeasurable dangers. When they fight for honour and win a fight, that is glorious indeed. It is at such moments that the House of Commons expresses its respect and its loyalty by a formal and reasoned resolution not only for the institution of Monarchy but for the person of the Sovereign who occupied the throne (cheers.)

"We are fortunate indeed that an office of such extraordinary significance should be filled by one who combines with intense love of our country and of all his people, thorough comprehension of our parliamentary and democratic constitution (cheers).

KING'S DEVOTION TO DUTY.

"Well may it be said that the prerogatives of the Crown have become the privileges of the people. Sincere affection, quite apart from constitutional respect, has come to King George VI from all parts of his Empire and Commonwealth (cheers). He is well beloved because of his courage, his simple way of living and his tireless devotion to duty.

I will give just one instance of many—one which has been brought much before my eyes in my daily work. In all 92,000 decorations have been awarded to those who have done brave or ardous service in this war. Of this great number of 92,000, over 37,000 have been personally presented to the recipients by the hands of His Majesty the King (cheers).

"Continuous discharge of every function helpful to the peace and happiness of the country and the prosecution of war by the King and by the Royal Family has been long remarked and admired by the people in all parts of the country, engaged in all kinds of functions and most especially those in areas which have been shattered by the bombing of the enemy.

"His Majesty's visits to the battle-front have involved his royal person in that element of danger which cannot be divorced from travel by air, but we must also remember him as a sailor King who fought as a young officer in the greatest of all naval battles, the battle of Jutland (cheers).

"GRACIOUS CONSORT."

"It would be altogether unfitting if I mentioned these personal aspects of His Majesty's work without referring also to his gracious consort the Queen (cheers), who has been everywhere with him to scenes of suffering and disaster, to hospitals, places shattered the day before by some devastating explosion, to the bereaved and to sufferers and to the wounded, and I am sure that many an aching heart has found some solace in her gracious smile (cheers).

"I do not think that any Prime Minister has ever received so much personal kindness and encouragement from his sovereign as I have. Every week I have my audience, the greater part of which occurs most agreeably at luncheon.

"I have seen the King at close quarters in every phase of our formidable experience I remember well how in the first months of this administration the King would come in from practising with his rifle and his Tommy gun in the garden at Buckingham Palace and if it had come to the last stand in London—a matter which had to be considered at one time—I have no doubt that His Majesty would have come very near departing from his usual constitutional rectitude by disregarding the advice of his Ministers (laughter).

LABOUR TRIBUTES.

Speaking on the address to the King in the House of Commons Mr. Arthur Greenwood, Deputy Leader of the Labour Party, hoped it would not be long before the Prime Minister came to the House with a similar motion at the final termination of the war. "Whether that be soon or late, we can rely upon His Majesty to perform his duties with distinction and courage, in the knowledge that there is love for him in the heart of the people", he said (loud cheers).

Sir Percy Harris (Liberal) said the words of the Prime Minister and Mr. Greenwood were no mere formality. His Majesty had won not only the respect but deep affection of the whole people by his quiet dignity and devotion to duty, which had been an inspiration.

Mr. George Lambert (Liberal National) said rarely had the Prime Minister expressed deepseated emotion of the nation better than to-day.

Earl Winterton (Conservative) said the Prime Minister's words were a model of what should be said on this very historic occasion.

There were no further speeches and the motion was agreed by the whole House.

A similar motion was passed in the House of Lords.

MUSSOLINI

Insolence that dared to make of men
mere playthings,
Of human life a grinning travesty,
Builded into a grim sky-scraping structure
Upon the framework of blanched skeletons
Rotted on scarred battlefields, in scorched tenements.

Insolence of drunk erratic dictatorship,
Loud oratory foaming at the mouth
And frothing from steel-guarded platform
And blood-bespattered truth-cancelled pulpit.

Treacherous Mussolini in the name of triumph
Ruined the name of Italy utterly!
That once dreaded brute of Fascism
Who swelled with sadistic excitement
In bare, dark Abyssinia to behold
Helpless inhabitants succumb
To mechanised warfare, answering back
However feebly for a bloody while.
That heartless Fascist lord of overlords
Who riding on the backs of his own people
Sought to become the master of the world.
He, once unchallengable overlord
Died like a veritable dog
Spat on by the survivors of the dead
Whose spirit-memory haunts empty homes...
Each spot of spit sped like an envenomed bullet
An eye for an eye, tooth for a tooth
Bullet for bullet!
And he lay there, the crumbled edifice
Of one-day insolence that thought to outlive
Ages and ages of new-fashioned chains
Whole centuries of a new-ushered serfdom,
Itself sole monarch smiling among ruins
In terrible complacence!

Insolence, whether here or anywhere!
Beware!
Imagining your head so heaven-high
That men can hardly reach up to your knees,
Your legs grown adamant and unmeasurable!
History denies your hideous survival,
And in her bosom holds a viewless sword
To cut the earth under your rooted feet!
Under whatever guise you might continue,
Under whatever name, whatever class,
Wherever your breath soils the innocent air,
Or stains the clean pure mirror of human growth,
You shall be tracked and broken
into shivers,
You shall be disinherited, you shall die
Even as did Mussolini, like a dog.

CHURCHILL'S VICTORY "SPIRIT"

(BY HOMI J. H. TALEYARKHAN).

It is a pity that even in Victory, Mr. Churchill's prejudice does not allow him to be generous or fair to India even out of sheer gratitude, if nothing else.

In the victory war review, broadcast on Monday, he mentioned the part played by every country and every colony in this war, but he did not allow—even accidentally—a word to slip out from his lips about the great role played by Indian troops, the troops which overthrew Rommel at his best and won North Africa for Churchill, the troops which achieved so gloriously in the rugged terrain of Italy, the troops which are labouring so valiantly in the marshes of Burma, the troops which defied popular opinion in their own country to fight Churchill's war and win Churchill's victory.

Yet Churchill has not a words of appreciation for them. Australia, New Zealand, Canada and other colonies which sacrificed and performed so little comparatively won his thanks and his kudos, but India, ungratefully treated as usual, earned no applause from the diehard British premier, if not for herself, even for those who laid down their lives—so Churchill could live.

Indeed, if Churchill meant what he said that if he were not wanted anymore, he would be ready to retire and if the British people do feel he should go after the defeat of Japan, this freedom-loving people, this democracy-believing islanders, should make his treatment of India the principal issue of his resignation.

COURT CAUSERIE

By NESTOR

Emergency Legislation

The news comes from London that Regulation 18 B of the English Defence Regulations has been repealed. That Regulation corresponded to Rule 26 of the Defence of India Rules now replaced for all practical purposes by the Restriction and Detention Ordinance of 1944) and empowered the Executive to detain anyone on suspicion and without trial. It would hardly be disputed that drastic emergency legislation which curtailed the liberty of the subject and invested the Executive with extensive powers was necessary to meet the situation created by the war. In India, it has been our sad experience that those powers have been too often abused by Executive officers. Our Courts have, times out of number, held invalid orders of detention on the ground that they had been passed without the officer concerned having at all applied his mind to the case, or on the ground that they had not been made bona fide. It was only last Wednesday that Mr. Justice Bhagwati held on a 'habeas corpus' application on behalf of a detenu that his arrest under the Defence of India Rules was not bona fide, was actuated by indirect motives and was "a fraud on the powers invested in the Commissioner of Police." It must be said to the credit of our Courts of Law that they have acted fearlessly and stood out as jealous guadrians of public liberty

Emergency legislation which seriously curtails the liberty of the subject should not be continued one moment longer than is absolutely necessary for public safety. In England, the Government have already rid themselves of the power to detain people without trial, to suppress newspapers, to prohibit certain meetings and processions, to restrict trades disputes activities and to raise to the level of crime the making of remarks liable to cause "alarm or despondency", powers which have been highly repugnant to a large section of the Parliament. With Rangoon back in our hands, and the Japs on the run everywhere, it could hardly be said that a state of emergency exists in India any longer, which would justify the retention of these drastic powers here any more than in England. Yet instead of relaxing such powers, it was only a few days back that we read that telephone communications were liable to be monitored. We trust that in this country too the Government will now repeal at least the obnoxious provisions of Rules 26 and 129 of the Defence of India Rules and the Restriction and Detention Ordinance of 1944 and restore individual freedom which is "but the unfettered use of all the powers which God for use had given." That would mean the release of the Congress leaders now detained under those provisions and might, incidentally, result in a solution of the consititutional deadlock in India. India may still be the base for operations in the Far East, but the shadow of war has gradually receded further and further away from it and with it has vanished the necessity for the stringent emergency legislation that has weighed upon us.

A Legal Conundrum

We have no sympathy for those who under a misguided sense of patriotism

"..... broke ope
The Lord's anointed temple, and stole thence
The life o' the building."

But there have been very interesting developments in the Chimur-Ashti Murder Case in which a 'habeas corpus' application had been filed in the Nagpur High Court on behalf of the seven convicted persons on the ground that the death warrants could only be signed by the Special Court which passed the death sentences, and that Court having ceased to exist the sentences could not be carried out on the authority of death warrants signed by the Sessions Judge of Wardha. The application came up before a Bench consisting of Mr. Justice Niyogi and Mr. Justice Hemeon who disagreed, the former accepting the defence argument and holding that the death warrants were not valid. Before proceeding on vacation leave, the Chief Justice of Nagpur had appointed Mr. Justice Pollock as the third Judge in the event of disagreement. Mr. Justice Pollock to whom the application had been referred agreed with Mr. Justice Hemeon that the death warrants had been validly issued. Having regard to Ordinance 19 of 1943 which enacted that sentences passed by a Special Judge shall have effect as if the trial at which they were passed had been held by a competent Sessions Judge, this decision seems to us to be clearly right. But the defence lawyers were undaunted. They then contended that no third Judge could be legally appointed in a habeas corpus matter because there was no provision in the habeas corpus Section 491 nor had any rules been framed under it to that effect. Habeas corpus is a special jurisdiction which is neither civil nor criminal, nor original nor appellate nor revisional. The Nagpur High Court has, it seems, rejected this ingenious argument. In our opinion there is no answer to it. The text of judgment on this point is not yet available to us, but I fail to see how the Chief Justice acting by himself could do by a mere administrative order what Section 491 enjoins could only be done by procedural Rules framed under that section by law and all the other judges.

The Court Vacation

Mr. Justice Bhagwati, who is one of our vacation judges in the High Court, has, by his characteristic industry, been converting the Court vacation into working time by sitting practically every day and taking up matters without questioning their urgency. What is worse, most of the senior members of the Bar refuse to oblige by going out of Bombay. They are to be seen appearing in Courts and the dissatisfied juniors live on hope and fresh air as ever before. It has been one of the evil effects of this war that seniors have been unable to go to England for a holiday as they used to do But do they believe that India is not worth seeing.

Greater Bombay

Like a diseased heart our city threatens to enlarge itself. The Greater Bombay Scheme which is shortly to come into force will include within the limits of Bombay city not only the municipal areas of the Suburban towns but also eighteen villages. So that a poor villager driven to file a suit in respect of the tiniest fragment of land will have to undertake, what would be for him, a long and expensive travel to Bombay and will have to instruct a solicitor to file a suit in the Bombay High Court. This may be a boon to the lawyers of our city, particularly Solicitors, but will certainly be very hard on the poor villager, and will strengthen the hands of those who are agitating for the abolition of the dual system of solicitors and advocates. It will operate harshly as regards the suburban lawyers who will be deprived of the Courts in which they practised. All innovations must, however, operate harshly against some section of society or other and they cannot be negatived on that ground if the change is for the better. But we seriously doubt whether the Greater Bombay scheme is a change for the better. The only advantage claimed for the Greater Bombay Scheme is that it will lead to more efficient police and municipal services than those that prevail now. On the other hand, at least as regards municipal administration, we believe that a certain amount of decentralisation is conducive to efficiency. At any rate, the new Scheme will make justice very expensive for Suburban litigants, unless the Government finds a 'via media' by making the necessary statutory amendments and setting up a Civil Court with jurisdiction to try not merely money suits upto the value of Rs. 2,000 like our Court of Small Causes, but also suits for land of that value. We trust the Government will not deny justice to our Suburban villagers for justice plays as important a part in the maintenance of law and order as a good police force.

TÊTE-À-TÊTE

WITHOUT COMMENT—

Complex post-war problems are rapidly taking shape and in some cases already assuming formidable dimensions, and this barely seven days after the official end of the war against Germany, cables Ian Munro, Reuter's special correspondent from London.

Despite Halifaxes, Edens and some American friends, the Legislature of California did invite Mrs. Vijayalaxmi Pandit and heard her make a striking speech.

To which we do not take any objection at all. But what we do deplore is that Sir Firoz Khan Noon, the official Indian delegate and spokesman, should not have been invited to address ev-- a Municipal Committee of any of the suburbs of San Francisco.

Wondering why Mr. Churchill had suddenly postponed his broadcast as originally proposed, we listened to and read him on Monday with careful attention.

We are still wondering and will, we fear, keep on wondering unless help comes from elsewhere, say, for instance, the Moscow Radio or "Pravda".

Others are also wondering. It is reported for example that M. P's would like to know who and what Mr. Churchill meant when he disapproved of totalitarian or police Governments taking the place of Nazi and Fascist rule.

So far as the Junior Colleague is concerned, he thinks it is quite clear. Mr. Churchill, wants "totalitarian or police Governments" to be the unique distinction of India.

Talking of India, apart from the fact that our Junior Colleague is extremely and irresponsibly frivolous India was really conspicuous by her absence from Mr. Churchill's address. The word did not occur at all during the entire broadcast.

But you mustn't rush to the conclusion that Mr. Churchill ignored India as he did many a foreign country and ally. He, in fact, mentioned—and quite enthusiastically—the whole for the part. He spoke of the Empire, no, sorry, of "our Empire".

We hope India's "representative" Sir Firoz Khan Noon, who is now in London, calls on Mr. Churchill to renew, on behalf of himself and his Indian fellow-subjects, assurances of loyalty and allegiance to their masters Mr. Churchill and his fellow-Britons.

By the way, one portion of Mr. Churchill's address to the British people is interpreted to mean that he desires to remain in office as Tory Prime Minister on the ground that the situation requires on the part of the people "further efforts of mind and body and further sacrifices....."

If so we agree.

DEPRESSION IN AHMEDABAD CLOTH MARKET

(From Our Correspondent.)

AHMEDABAD, May 15.

After the end of the European war a feeling of depression prevails in the Ahmedabad cloth markets. People are not inclined to purchase cloth though retail merchants have enough stock in their shops. It is learnt that purchase of cloth by people is one-fourth of what it was two weeks back. This shows that the hoarding mentality of public is subsiding.

It is reliably learnt that Majur Mahajan will make a fresh demand regarding dearness allowance after the Industrial Court has granted three months dearness allowance in case the index of dearness is at a high level.

INDIAN SHIPPING COMPANY IN LONDON

LONDON, May 15. (Reuter): An Indian shipping company owned and managed by Indians is to be established in London and it is understood that the Board of Trade has granted permission for its registration.

The new company will be named Indian Union Steamship Company Limited with a capital of £100,000 (about Rs. 13 lakhs). The minimum bloc of shares has been fixed at £2,000 (about Rs. 26,000). It is understood that the company is being formed within the next four weeks and will have its head office in London. One of the members of the Board of Directors will be English, but the capital will be wholly Indian.

The object of the new company will be to trade along the Indian coast as well as on deep sea routes. The company proposes to acquire tankers for private hire.

Mr. N. Ghose, Governing Director of the Indian National Travels Limited of London, is mainly responsible for the new company.

Mr. Ghose told Reuter to-day that when the war in the Far East is over, it would be possible to purchase and hire 'liberty' ships from America. The new company would provide facilities for Indian students travelling to and from India and Europe every year.

No Power To Set Aside Chief Justice's Nomination

Niyogi And Hemeon Give Reason Why Pollock's Opinion Was Upheld In Ashti Chimur Case

NAGPUR, May 11 (A.P.I.)—Rejecting the 'habeas corpus' petition filed on behalf of the seven condemned prisoners in the Chimur and Ashti cases and rejecting the defence application challenging the validity of Justice Pollock's opinion, Justice Sir M. B. Niyogi and Justice C. R. Hemeon, in the course of their judgment say: "We are clearly of the opinion that we cannot go behind Justice Pollock's opinion, but that we are bound to give effect to it as it stands."

The defence challenging the validity of Justice Pollock's opinion had submitted that Justice Pollock's opinion was not valid in law and should not be taken into consideration for the decision of the case and that the decision of the case be postponed till valid opinion of a third judge was recorded after due compliance with clause 26 of Letters Patent of the Nagpur High Court. It was also prayed that the applicants be heard on the application before any other order was passed.

PRACTICE OF COURT

Their Lordships after referring to defence arguments said that the rules framed by the High Court proved that the applications under Section 491 Cr.P.C. "shall be heard by a bench of two judges. In case of difference of opinion these cases had, in the past, been laid before a third judge under Clause 26 of Letters Patent and that had now become a practice of this court. Consequently defence counsel's contention that reference made by this bench, nomination of Justice Pollock by Chief Justice and the Opinion recorded by Justice Pollock were all void and must be rejected."

Proceeding, Their Lordships observe: "It is urged that Justice Pollock was disqualified from hearing the case as he had been the reviewing officer and that he had issued death warrants against two of the applicants. The Chief Justice after considering both these pleas held that as the point was purely one of law and interpretation, Justice Pollock was in no way unfitted to hear the case. The applicants are not entitled to reopen the controversy before us as we have no power to set aside the nomination of Justice Pollock by the Chief Justice and ask him to nominate another judge."

Continuing, Their Lordships observed: "The main grievance of the applicants appears to be, as indicated in this application, that Justice Pollock did not afford them an opportunity of being heard, even if the omission to hear the applicants constituted a material irregularity, it could be rectified only by a superior appellate or revisional authority. This is not a forum for canvassing legality any more than the propriety or correctness of opinion recorded by a third judge."

LONDON STOCK EXCHANGE.

LONDON, May 15.

Renewal of yesterday's buoyancy of South African gold mines was an early feature on stock markets to-day. Libanons were well favoured on prospects of resumption of developments in the near future. Subsequently profit-taking appeared on the rise and some of earlier improvement was lost but the undertone remained firm.

In other directions the markets ruled quietly steady. British funds ruled firm with gains ranging upto one quarter on sizeable demand which was helped by rumours of a possible resumption of two and half per cent. war bonds, and found the market temporarily short of stock. British railways ruled quiet while South American rails were rather uncertain owing to absence of interest. Foreign bonds remained quiet. Industrials were generally mixed with some bright spots appearing on little investment support. —Reuter.

WHITEHALL TOO DENIES IT

"Matrubhumi" Allegations Of Jinnah-Amery Correspondence

LONDON, May 15 (Reuter): Confirmation of the denial made earlier this month by the President of the Moslem League, Mr. M. A. Jinnah of a report in an Indian vernacular newspaper, came from an India Office official today.

The report alleged that Mr. Jinnah had been in correspondence with Mr L. S. Amery, Secretary for India, on the eve of the Gandhi-Jinnah negotiations in Bombay last year. "This newspaper report is a complete fabrication of truth", the official told Reuter.

"People's War" Takes Up "Matrubhumi's" Challenge

BOMBAY, Tuesday.

Mr. P. C. Joshi, General Secretary of the Communist Party of India has issued the following statement on the alleged Jinnah-Amery Correspondence:

"Even after Mr. Jinnah's categorical denial, a section of the Press persists in publishing the alleged Jinnah-Amery Correspondence. Except Rajaji no responsible public leader or patriotic newspaper has as yet expressed an opinion though it is a matter of great importance to our political life and public morality. The fascimile which was to prove that Mr. Jinnah was lying has on the contrary conclusively proved that the letters were fabrications.

"Mr. Chimanlal Vadilal, "Matrubhumi" proprietor, could quite easily have satisfied himself as to the genuineness or otherwise of the document before he contradicted Mr. Jinnah. Everybody knows that a covenanted civil servant or titled public man would have a sanad signed by Mr. Amery which could have been used for comparison.

"I have gone through the letters carefully. There is ample internal evidence from the political, language and typographical point of view that shows they were fabricated by some half-educated person. We are proving through the columns of our weekly the "People's War" that the alleged letters are a forgery to the satisfaction of any honest man.

"The alien bureaucrats who work so swiftly when their interests are threatened have ignored this fabrication so long. It looks as if it suits them well if relations between Congress and League are poisoned by unjust suspicions and untrue charges.

"But whether Mr. Amery chooses to contradict or not, I appeal to Mr. Chimanlal Vadilal to publicly apologise to Mr. Jinnah for the grave wrong he has done to him and the cause of national unity and independence. Only the enemies of Indian Freedom will be happy if we start using such dirty and dishonest methods in the conduct of our public life.

"I also appeal to the entire nationalist press to campaign against such methods and bring pressure on Mr. Chimanlal Vadilal to apologise to Mr. Jinnah and the millions of Muslims who love and respect him even as Gandhiji is loved and respected."

Editor's Cable Not Answered

Mr Chimanlal Vadilal Shah, Editor of the "Matrabhumi" had sent the following cable to Mr. Amery on May 14:—

"We are in possession of what purports to be an authentic correspondence between you and Mr Jinnah over political questions beginning sometime in July and ending in December last. We have been publishing the correspondence in our papers since May 7 in daily instalments. Mr Jinnah on May 10 denied the authorship of this correspondence on his part and characterized it as pure fabrication. We remain unconvinced by this denial because the genuineness of the correspondence seems to be beyond doubt. Since you are the other party concerned in this correspondence in fairness to you we would like to have your opinion in the matter. We assure you that your advice in this matter will guide us in our future course of action."

Mr. Shah says that he has not received any reply so far from Mr. Amery to the above cable.

The Sportsman's Sportsfolio

By J. C. MAITRA

Thanks to the severe criticisms in the "Bombay Chronicle", the W.I.F.A. Committee has now abandoned its silly policy of "Travel when you must". Taking advantage of their roaring gates, they have gone back to the pre-war days when they used to invite teams from Poona, Kirkee and even Ahmednagar for the senior Division of the Harwood League. The B.B.R.C. (British Base Reinforcement Camp) from Deolali who won the Rovers Cup and the Western India Championship last season, the Poona Services XI and the Kalyan Services XI are now figuring in the League this year. The number of competing teams has been raised to fifteen. It is a record but the teams will play each other only once, and not twice as is the case generally everywhere.

INNOVATION IN HARWOOD LEAGUE.

Strange as it may seem, the League will have a divided run with the Henrichs Shield intervening in the second half of June. This has been done with a view to accommodate the Western India Championship which is open to the same teams as in the Henrichs Shield. The repetition might be avoided by having two different types of draw for these competitions that is, one fixed draw from the first round to the last for one tournament and a fresh draw for each round for the other as in the F.A. Cup in England. Perhaps that would be done still. The division is said to have been made with a view to avoid the monotony of a long-drawn-out League. On the other hand a League needs to be continuous to maintain its interest from beginning to end. It remains to be seen how the innovation works.

SPECIAL ADVANTAGE TO BOOTED TEAMS.

From the programme I notice that the W.I.F.A. Committee has gone out of its way to arrange the matches to give a special advantage to the booted sides. If they are to meet the leading Indian teams like the Tatas Trades India (the old W.I.A.A. Staff in a new garb) and the South Indians on a dry ground as it is at present their chances of winning the championship may be jeopardised. There is no doubt that with the arrival of the monsoon they will be in a better position to dispose of their lighter opponents whether they play with boots or not.

INDIAN PLAYERS' PROBLEM.

The question of thus handicapping the leading Indian teams deliberately does not arise as the fault lies with the latter. If they do not use boots always and increase their strength and stamina it is their own fault. Who else can be blamed for their poverty but themselves? They are expected by all their well-wishers to provide themselves with costly boots and good nourishing food from their meagre salaries. Whether they can afford these luxuries or not is beneath their consideration!

E.H.Q.'S BRIGHT CHANCES.

The Embarkation Head Quarters, last year's champions, have begun their season very well. They accounted for the Maritime Gunners and the B.E.S.T. with six goals to their credit on each occasion giving away only one to the latter almost accidentally. They have practically the same combination as last season with a Scottish International in Tommy Walker strengthening the attack further. So their chances of retaining the title are fairly bright.

The same cannot be said of the B.B.R.C. who have lost most of those players who helped them to register brilliant successes last season. It is however, possible that their new outfit would gradually improve to maintain the glorious record of their predecessors.

W.I.A.A. AS TRADES INDIA.

The Royal Air Force have also lost some of their stalwarts. But with Keddie Powell and Curtis still forming the backbone of their attack and defence, they may be able to perform well in the long run.

The Tatas by claiming the Nadkarni Cup twice in succession have proved themselves to be the soundest Indian combination in the city at present. With most of their old players functioning well, they may be depended upon to give the Service teams a good run for their money.

Pesi Hirji has taken over from Jehangir Patell the entire W.I.A.A. collection. So far they have played against Indian teams only. However they may also be relied upon to give a creditable account of themselves against all comers. I hope the South Indians will have better luck than they had last year.

Ban On T.U.C. Conference

Utter Irresponsibility, Says M. K. Bose

CALCUTTA, May 15 (A.P.I.): The president of the All-India Trade Union Congress, Mr. Mrinal Kanti Bose, in a statement to the Press, says that he understands that the District Magistrate of Coconada, East Godaveri, Madras, has refused permission for the holding of a conference of the regional Trade Union Council (which is affiliated to the A.I.T.U.C.) at Rajamundry on the 26th and 27th May.

"No reason has been given for this action" adds Mr. Bose. "I am told that local union meetings have been allowed at the same place without objection. I do not understand why the District Magistrate has thought fit to put a ban on the conference. Is it because people from outside are likely to attend the Conference? The suppression of civil liberties in this fashion speaks of a spirit of utter irresponsibility. The Regional Council, being affiliated to the A.I.T.U.C., must follow the policy of the latter which is to carry on Trade union activities on peaceful, legitimate and constitutional lines. I hope that wiser counsels will prevail and the ban will be withdrawn."

KHER ON PRINCELY ORDER

BHOR, May 12 (A.P.I.): The Princely Order is an unnecessary remnant of the deteriorating and declining era of individual authority. I would humbly suggest that it is in the interest of both the Princes and their subjects, as also of the people in British India, that the Princes, instead of trying to stabilise their tottering thrones with the help of British power and learned counsels, should accept the co-operation extended by States' People representatives", said Mr. B. G. Kher, former Premier of Bombay, presiding over the 144 session of the Deccan States Peoples Conference here this evening. MR. KHER DESCRIBED THE PRINCELY ORDER AS A BARRIER ERECTED BY THE BRITISH TO SAFEGUARD THEIR INTERESTS: but, he said, he was not sure that British imperialism would not sacrifice them if it were necessary in their interests.

Sessions Trial For Jejuri Temple Dacoity Case Accused

POONA, May 11 (A.P.I.)—Mr. M. K. Patwardhan and 13 other accused in what is known as the Jejuri Temple Dacoity Case were committed to Sessions trial today by Mr. S. G. Deshpande, Third Class Additional City Magistrate, Poona. The accused are involved in a dacoity committed at the temple at Jejuri one of the most famous temples in Maharashtra, and it is alleged, made away with silver, gold and other ornaments worth over a lakh of rupees. Most of the property stolen has been recovered by the police.

The next session of the Indian History Congress will be held at Chitambaram on December 29, 30 and 31. Dr. Tarachand will preside.

Anglo-American Notes To Tito

WITHDRAWAL FROM TRIESTE DEMANDED

LONDON, May 15, (Reuter): Complex post-war problems are rapidly taking shape and in some cases already assuming formidable dimensions, and this barely seven days after the official endof the war against Germany, cables Ian Munro, Reuter's Special Correspondent.

This morning two London newspapers, the "Daily Mail" and the "Daily Express" give great prominence to reports that Marshal Tito has been formally requested by the British and United States Governments to withdraw all his forces from the Italian port of Trieste.

The "Daily Express" says "the two Governments take a most serious view of Marshal Tito's action in seizing this area of Italy, and his declaration that he proposed to hold it."

The "Daily Mail" says "whereas the United States has not sent any time limit for the withdrawal, the terms of their request can be regarded in all other respects as an ultimatum."

It is clear that the British and United States Governments are wholly opposed to unilateral acts or local frontier adjustments pending the general peace settlement.

No confirmation was available in official circles in London early this morning that a note ordering Tito to withdraw his forces within a specified time had been despatched, although it is confirmed that the two Governments are conveying their views to Tito, and it is known that both feel very strongly on the point.

RUSSIA INFORMED

Russia is being kept informed of the position and it is still hoped that satisfactory settlement will be reached.

With Trieste emerging as one of the Allies' biggest and most immediate problems, Paul Scott Rankine, Reuter's chief correspondent in America, cables to-day saying that diplomatic observers feel that the United States intends to participate in any reviewing of Europe's boundaries.

BIG THREE TO MEET SOON

Mr. Eden, the British Foreign Secretary, adds Rankine, is confidently believed to have impressed upon President Truman the need for an immediate meeting of the "Big Three" to thrash out relations which no one pretends, have improved during the San Francisco Conference.

Apart from the dominating question of Poland and now the urgent Trieste issue there is the problem of the Austrian Government. The State Department to-day refused to comment on the declaration of independence by the Austrian Provisional Government but pointed out that Britain and America had already been put on record in their non-recognition of that body.

Trieste May Establish Precedent

It is believed that Field Marshal Alexander had settled this question in one of his earlier visits to Marshal Tito in Belgrade and Marshal Tito will be asked to adhere to this agreement. This demarcation line leaves a greater part of Istria and the disputed province of Venezia Giulia (North Eastern Italy) and also the Austrian province of Carinthia under Field Marshal Alexander's command. Fiume is left to Yugoslav occupation.

Yugoslav circles in London say that a delicate situation will arise if Yugoslav forces are asked to withdraw from Trieste. They point also to the military difficulties of Marshal Tito who is still engaged with hostile Germans in Ustachi and Chetniks in Northern and North Eastern Yugoslavia. They are also sceptical about the possibility of Yugoslav occupation troops agreeing to serve under Field Marshal Alexandar's command.

The whole affair is deeply regretted in London where, it is emphasised, there is no ill-will towards Yugoslavia nor automatic support for the Italian case. What is feared, however, is that the Trieste affair may become a general precedent for the occupation forces staying on the territory they have taken in the course of the war.

They include the question of occupied areas in Germany and Austria, where considerable adjustments will be necessary in the present line-up, to establish actual zones of occupation which have been agreed between the four main occupying powers. This bigger issue it is that compelled the British and the United States Governments to take a firm stand over Trieste. Any loosening up at this stage would open the door to a flood of demands for a revision of the inter-Allied agreements freely arrived.

PATIL OPENS CONGRESS WORKERS' TRAINING CAMP

"Mahatma Gandhi has very often told Congressmen and he did so particularly while recommending to the nation the 'Quit India' Resolution of August 8, 1942, that when the natural leaders of the Congress are arrested and imprisoned every Congressman becomes his own leader and follows the Congress programme in letter and spirit. In that position anybody was free to lead if there were people to follow him." Thus observed Mr. S. K. Patil, declaring open to-night the Congress Workers' Camp, at the Jain Boarding House, Matunga.

Explaining the implication of this advice of Gandhiji, Mr. Patil said: "We have not only to take the letter of his advice. The spirit is more important and it must not be lost sight of. We have to fashion ourselves into ideal Congressmen of Gandhiji's conception. Are we such and if not, why not and how can we approximate to that standard? These are some of the questions which must engage the immediate attention of our rank and file if we seriously mean reorganising the Congress institution on a new and sound basis".

Congress to-day suffered from a paucity of devoted and persistent workers, he said, and added:—"We have four million Congress members on our registers but not one in a hundred has that devotion and persisting which are the pre-requisite of a public worker".

"To remedy this defect we have to build up a regular army of full-time Congress workers who can devote most of their working hours to the work of the Congress without any other serious occupation dividing their energies. This is very urgent and Congress organisations in the country ought to set about this business forthwith", he proceeded.

Continuing he said that in a reconstructed Congress there should be a well-planned dynamic programme of continuous mass activity. We must unitedly chalk out this programme and pledge ourselves to its fulfilment" he added.

"We must broadbase our organisation and then take it deep into the masses. There ought not to be a single village without some sort of Congress Committee functioning in it", continued Mr. Patil advocating a three-year plan and added:—"We must organisationally go among Kisans, Mazdoors, students and Gumastas and enlist their sympathies for the Congress work."

No Peace With Colonial Vested Interests

VIJAYALAXMI'S HISTORIC ADDRESS AT CALIFORNIA LEGISLATURE

CALIFORNIA, May 11. (Reuter): Beneath the gold dome of the capital building of Sacramento, Capital of California, Mrs. Vijayalaxmi Pandit to-day declared that new ties forged between America and India would help the solution not only of India's problem but the problem of colonial possessions everywhere, says Stanley Burch, Reuter's Chief Editor in America, in a radio despatch.

In an earnest speech calling for sympathy for India's campaign for independence, delivered at the invitation of the State Legislature, Mrs. Pandi told the assembly men "So long as these colonial vested interests remain, there can be no peace, there can be no security, and so long as there is no security or peace, we shall go on destroying all that generations and centuries of human effort have built up.

I believe these new ties will work for common good between peoples of the world—because it is the people who are going to build up this world structure".

The Legislature of California sitting in the city which was the centre of the famous gold rush of 1849 adjourned a debate on States budget to hear Mrs. Pandit. They sat at the back of rows of desks littered with financial papers to hear her eloquent speech.

ONE UNITY

Declaring that the world must not think in terms of national freedom but of the freedom for the whole world, Mrs. Pandit said "we must inevitably consider America and India and all Nations of the world as one unity. Therefore, I am happy to be able to tell you that in India we have come closer to America in understanding through those men who to-day are fighting in India. We have given them a welcome and we believe they have brought back to America memories of friendship and understanding."

"No question can be solved by itself. Unless we are prepared to accept certain principles, we shall not be successful however hard we try to find a solution to the problem of permanent peace and the security of the world."

FRIENDSHIP OF ALL NATIONS NECESSARY

"In this reconstruction it is necessary to have the help and friendship of all Nations. It is necessary to build up a new world with ties of cultural contacts, industrial and commercial contacts and contacts of every sort."

"Before we can talk about interdependence, we must realise that it is only through independence that we can achieve inter-dependence. Because, I feel that so strongly that I must remind you that if India were to-day an independent country, she would throw in her weight to a much larger measure and would help in building up the structure of security and permanent peace which is the aim of the Nations at San Francisco.

"India has it in her heart to work with other Nations to help in an organisation of the world in which all people can live in honour and justice. To a degree to which justice is denied to any group of people, to that degree will all these conferences have failed and the structure that has been envisaged for permanent peace be a failure also.

NO THINKING IN TERMS OF POWER POLITICS

"So long as we think in terms of power politics and political expediency, we cannot hope to achieve anything of lasting value. But if the foundations of the new world structure are laid on justice and on the recognition of independence of all peoples I believe it will be possible to avoid future conflicts and to have a world in which all people can work together for common good.

"It is not only a question of recognition of the principle of ultimate independence. Recognition has to be translated into action. I would like you in America to understand how vital it is for the future of the world that these problems are approached in terms of realism and understanding and that this independence—which is something so dear to you, which you have fought to preserve—is something which those, who have not yet achieved it, value even more dearly than you who now possess it."

INDIA'S ADMIRATION FOR BRITAIN

"Declaring that the people of India tremendously admired the people of England, Mrs. Pandit said that it was the system they fought, not the people. Only with the liquidation of the system of colonial domination could there be any harmony in the world.

Mrs Pandit concluded her speech with emotional reaffirmation of her belief in the future which the world could build up.

"I believe the future will be built up into a really beautiful thing through the efforts of all those who desire justice, honour and peace among Nations.

"I think America is going to play a vital part in this new world structure. But you cannot hold on to your greatness unless you realise that it is by sharing not by bossing that the world rises. The extent to which you insist on this principle will be the extent to which you have achieved greatness now and in the world to come."

ERNEST DEBS SPEECH

Mr. Ernest Debs, assembly man, who took a leading part in inviting Mrs. Pandit and who presided over the House, thanked her for the speech with the declaration "hundred and fifty years ago we in the United States were striving for the same thing which you are striving for. I feel strongly on the subject of freedom not only for India but for all peoples all over the world."

When it was announced that Mrs. Pandit had been invited to address the Legislature, a number of assembly men sought to have the speech indefinitely postponed on the grounds that they had not the time for further interruption of the Budget debate.

SILENCE REIGNS DURING MRS. PANDIT'S SPEECH

Mr. Debs took the lead in blocking this resolution and to-day when the session opened the speaker Mr. Charles Lyon withdrew to let Mr. Debs take the chair. The invitation to Mrs. Pandit followed a number of addresses she had made to women's groups in Sacrament outspokenly attacking the Indian delegation to the San Francisco Conference as unrepresentative of the Indian people. There was a full house to hear her speech. But the assembly men sat in silence not applauding her until the end of the address.

War Of 'Synthetics' In U. S. A.

"BLACK HORSE" IS ONE OF THE BEST KEPT TRADE SECRETS OF THE WAR

NEW YORK, (By Mail). (U.P.A.) With their eye fastened on post-war markets, America's leading chemical firms have plunged head-long into the mad scramble of producing synthetic fibers.

Du pont—pre-war "king" of the nylon field—is finding stiff competition growing in the rival plants of Dow Chemical, Union Carbide and Carbon Corporation, Firestone Tyre and Rubber Company, and a "black horse".

The "Black Horse" is one of the best kept trade secrets of the war. It is the formula used in producing synthetic silk for the United States Army, a chemical combination. the Army will not release for reasons of military security.

Among the next synthetic fibers experiment upon are the following:

1. Vinyon, produced by the Carbide firm. According to experts, it is "as good as nylon and cheaper" to use. Trade circles report mass production will begin after the war, and that experiments on hosiery made from vinyon are being conducted.

2. Dow's saran. This plastic, used in the past throughout the topics for screening and plumbing, is being perfected with hopes of leading the parade of post-war inexpensive hosiery fabrics. Its cheap cost is emphasized by the fact that it is made from the most inexpensive chemicals, including chlorine gas.

3. Firestone Tyre and Rubber is also rumored to be busily engaged behind sealed doors in working out the "kinks" in a product similar to saran.

Despite all these new developments in the field of synthetic plastics and textile fibers, Du Pont is going ahead under full power to out run its competitors. There are rumours of a new fire-proof fiber as elastic as a rubber band which Du Pont is experimenting upon.

Chemical firms are quick to point out that these amazing products are not ready for the manufacturers as yet much less the consumers.

An interesting feature of this synthetic field is that ten years ago there were only about four important plastics and two major chemical fibers—both used in rayon but neither of them being true synthetics. To-day there are about fifteen major plastics and more approaching world wide use every day.

The young synthetic field is just beginning to feel its weight.

AT 31 HE FELT LIKE AN OLD MAN

Backache Made it Agony to Stoop

KRUSCHEN GAVE HIM RELIEF FROM PAIN

This man of 31 was prematurely aged by kidney trouble, when he should have been enjoying the best years of his life. Here he tells how Kruschen gave him back his health after weeks of pain:—

"I suffered for weeks from kidney trouble, and felt like an old man, although I am only 31. If I stooped to do anything it was agony to straighten up again. Several people advised me to try Kruschen Salts as they had found them wonderful. I tried them and found they gave me relief from pain, and I felt better in every way. I cycle 28 miles a day to and from work, and shall keep up the daily dose of Kruschen because I can now do the journey, and a day's work, and not feel any the worse for it."—S.V.C.

The kidneys are the filters of the human body. Unless they function properly, certain acid wastes, instead of being expelled, are allowed to pollute the blood-stream and produce troublesome symptoms: backache, rheumatism, and excessive fatigue. Kruschen Salts is one of the finest diuretics or kidney aperients available for assisting the kidneys to excrete acid impurities.

All good chemists and stores sell Kruschen Salts.

LONG LIQUIDATION AND HEDGE SELLING IN NEW YORK MARKET

Prices Decline 15 Points

NEW YORK, May 14.

Cotton opened irregular and unchanged to two points lower. The market eased sharply except May with liquidation and hedges and indifferent offtake attributable to talk of the consideration of a world price and possible to reports that the Commodity Credit Corporation is cataloguing about one million bales purchased under the 1944 crop programme and will offer for sales on May 21st. Prices steadied feebly on the trade purchases on decline Latterly prices ruled steady on a dribbling of pricefixing and covering due to possibilities of considerable congressional opposition to the proposals to return to a competitive price system plus the fact that the programme if accepted will be effective until 1947. The session closed steady at one point higher to fourteen points lower.

July opened at about the highest level of the day at 22.82 and declined to 22.65 which was the lowest. The session closed at a net rise of 2 points to a decline of 15 points. Spot cotton price lost 12 points at 23.19c per lb.

Profit Taking On New York Stock Exchange

NEW YORK, May 14: Wall Stree opened steady and fairly active and selective buying continued. Although many leaders were neglected and slightly lower. Arguments over outbacks and contract cancellations and reconversion unsettlement as well as profittaking, persisted as recovery handicaps.

Investment indecision gripped the market in the afternoon and while few, such as airlines and peacerated stock recovered, leaders generally declined up to one point with selling not urgent. The session closed easy.

Commissioner To Rescue

'Preserve The Beauty Of Bombay' Drive

The Municipal Commissioner writes:—

The advertisement hoardings cinema and poster boards &c., a majority of which are very ugly, and which are seen to be springing up all over Bombay in a most chaotic fashion, thereby seriously detracting from the beautiful appearance of the City have been causing serious and growing concern to the Municipal authorities. With a view to the maintenance of the claim of Bombay to be classed as a beautiful City, and the 'Urbs Prima in Indis' it is considered necessary to regulate strictly the sites, types, sizes, heights, alignment, supports, etc., of all such hoardings and boards. It is accordingly proposed to lay down and follow a well considered and settled policy in this matter; and no licences will be given hereafter or renewed, unless the hoardings etc., conform to the rules laid down.

The rules framed can be seen at the office of the Superintendent of Licences, Shops and Establishments, in the Improvement Trust Building, 7, Napier Road, Fort, Bombay, on any working day, during office hours.

The active co-operation and help of all citizens, including the licence holders in this 'Preserve the Beauty of Bombay drive', would be welcome, and any helpful suggestions in this connection would be gratefully received.

LANCE CORPORAL TO GET V. C. TWICE!

NOTTINGHAM, May 11. (Reuter): When Lance Corporal Harry Nicholls, of Grenadier Guards, arrives home at Rossington Road, Nottingham, his wife will say "Harry, I have had to send your Victoria Cross back to the War Office—the King is going to hand it to you and not to me".

And that is how Harry—officially "dead" in 1940—will learn he has made history, for it will be the first time that the Victoria Cross has been presented twice in a war.

Mrs. Nicholls received his medal in 1940 after Harry's comrades had told her how he waded into three German machine-gun nests in Belgium. They were convinced he was dead. "Lance Corporal Nicholls died of wounds", the Germans announced.

Weeks later came the news that Harry was a prisoner, and in 1942 Mrs. Nicholls was asked by the War Office to send back the Victoria Cross so that he could receive it from the King.

Disc-Recording Of Tagore Music

SHANTINIKETAN, May 10 (A.P.I.): In order to preserve the songs of Poet Rabindranath in their authentic tunes, the Music Board of Shantiniketan, of which Prof. P. C. Mahalanabis is the Secretary, has been building up a library of disc-records—both negative and positive.

The Board has also been discussing the problem of disc-recording of Tagore music with the representatives of recording firms. It has put forward a scheme according to which arrangements will be made for the recording of three classes of Discs: (1) Commercial; (2) Semi-commercial—to be issued to a limited number of subscribers; and (3) Library or non-commercial—not to be sold to the public, but to be kept for reference.

Negotiations are also being carried on with the All-India Radio to place broadcasts of Rabindranath's works on a satisfactory basis.
